I am not able to fix the horizontal scroll bar of the page. It moves in a direction when you click anywhere on the page. I have followed the exact steps of the codepen but I am unable to fix it. Please do help.

html, body{ height: 100%; width: 100%; } body { font: 1em/1.9 monospace; font-size: 1.1em; display: flex; justify-content: center; align-items: center; padding: 0; margin: 0; } #outer{ height: 100%; width: 100%; overflow-y: scroll; overflow-x: auto; }

A: The content inside #outer has a width of 100%, so it creates a horizontal scrollbar. What you need to do is set up a min-width on #outer so that it will only fill up to a specific width. In this case, an idea is to set up the width to be as close as possible to the width of the canvas element, so that the scrollbar is only needed when the canvas is too small. It is then a trivial task to calculate that width to set up #outer's width. The width calculation is based on the a (r)ight and the s (top)ides, plus half the height. Then, you can take that value and set #outer's min-width accordingly:

html, body{ height: 100%; width: 100%; } body { font: 1em

The company began as Ntel in 1998 and expanded into other states as CenturyTel acquired other wireless companies. In 2004, CenturyTel purchased Verizon Wireless and in July 2008, they were renamed CenturyTel Mobility and relocated their corporate headquarters to Erie. All-Wired and CenturyTel provide phone service to multiple cities in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, Texas and parts of Maryland and New Jersey. In 2019, Verizon Wireless moved their headquarters and various small offices to Erie in a new state-of-the-art complex on the north shore of Erie Island. Verizon Wireless decided to remove CenturyTel as a prepaid brand in 2020.

CenturyTel Mobility was headquartered in Erie, Pennsylvania until 2019 when they moved to new office on Erie Island. CenturyTel Mobility's prepaid brand is called AllWired and includes service plans in parts of Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, Texas and Connecticut. As of July 2019, CenturyTel Mobility offers unlimited calling, texting and data for only $14.99 per month, but AllWired does not cover New York's Long Island.
